

Walking with Ying, a full-grown leopard, Toni Helfer moves up and down the obstacle stairs to teach the cat the method.

AFRICA, U.S.A.

In a secluded canyon approximately 45 miles north of Los Angeles, Calif., the sounds of 500 to 600 wild animals ring out every day. This is "Africa, U.S.A.", a 160-acre jungle compound where varied species are brought together to be trained for motion picture and television needs.

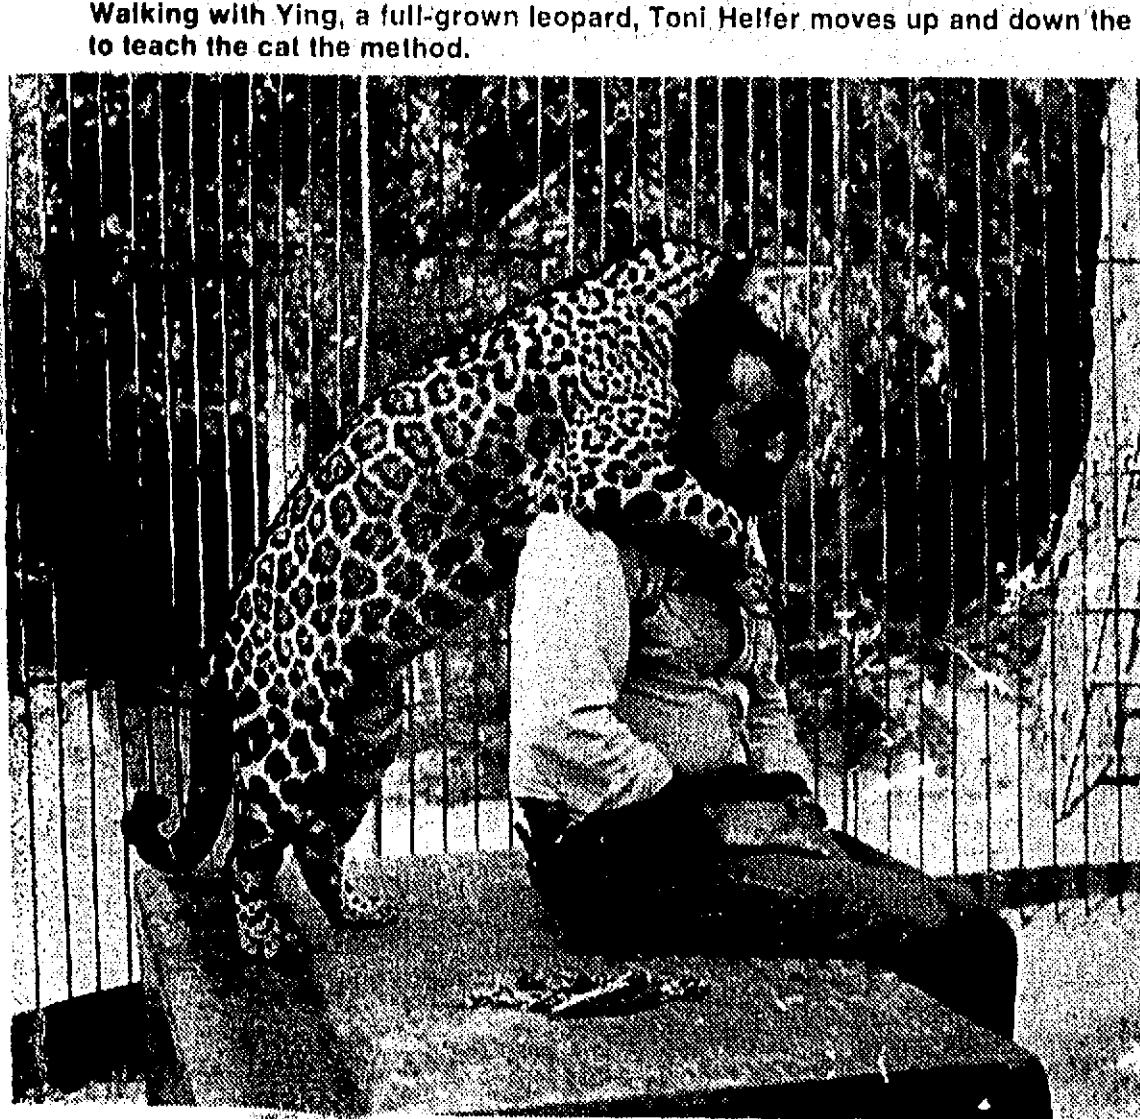

To adequately care and feed the animals daily, a 45-man staff moves about the grounds unafraid, following owner Ralph Helfer's view, and wife Toni, that the jungle creatures are tame, thus non-dangerous.

Beginning with the young when possible, the Helfers think as the animal thinks, rather than adapt it to human temperament. This established, they lavish continual kindness and affection to make the animal enjoy doing what is expected, without threat or reward. In turn, the teaching of routines and tricks, which overcome the animal's fears and inabilities, is simplified.

In the 15 years they have been in business, neither Helfer has been attacked. The animals, gathered from locales throughout the world, have passed through their training instead to become star performers to the viewing public.

Actress Cheryl Miller, of the TV show "Daktari", sits with the chimp Judy on her shoulders. The animal can obey 200 different verbal commands.

A leopard gives a hug to one of the handlers.

Between film shooting, Ralph Helfer, seated, feeds a tiger as wife Toni looks on. Other cats wander about unconcerned.

Handler Richard Capalbo wrestles with some of the big cats.

With assistant Mike Goodwin, Toni Helfer walks the leopard Ying over piled tires with little difficulty.

Low Shrinkage Loss

The benefits of durable press are practically 100 percent available. Now even lace trimmings feature the same low shrinkage and easy-laundering qualities as the durable press garments they enhance.

Oil Saves Skier's Skin

Snow bunnies making the snow scene require special beauty habits. Take a tip from the pros who swear by the versatility of baby oil for filling special needs. A coat of baby oil on your face before a day on the slopes will protect your skin from chapping and at the same time help promote a tan.

Shampoo Session

It is traditional for a good shampoo session to include a stimulating scalp massage. In fact, the North India Hindi word meaning "to press" is champna, from which the anglicized word "shampoo" is derived.

First Rule: Cleanliness

For the benefit of women who cannot consult him personally, world-famous Mr. Kenneth offers this advice on how to look their best: The most important rule is to be clean. Many people have dirty hair and dirty skin as a major problem, so the first rule is certainly cleanliness.

LIVING DOLL is Dick Van Dyke who appears this way in film, "Chitty Chitty Bang Bang."

When actor Richard Burton named 79-year-old Dame Edith Evans as one of the 10 most beautiful women in the world, she was inevitably asked for her secret of eternal youth. Said the British actress: "I guess it's simply soap and water, and learning not to fret."

The Great Mosque of Omar in Jerusalem now stands on the site of King Solomon's Temple.

Youth Beat

Unscrupulous "Businessmen" Cheat Teens: Trusting teens get themselves involved in buying vast amounts of "merchandise," only to find they cannot sell it as easily as promised—no profit, just pay.

why teens deplore the so-called "values" of the adult world.

Age of the Teen Impersonator: Interesting number of cases of "teen impostors" appearing in print. Notable example—a recent Californian attending high school as a "14-year-old orphan" from Louisiana. Was a star football player and model student. Suspicious authorities demanded credentials. Learned he was a parole violator from home state, had completed high school and attended college for a year. Biggest "break" in the case came as boy (man) tried to sell his services to the FBI as an "undercover" narcotics informer.

Busy as Beatles: In an obvious effort to diversify before their whole scene goes down the tubes, the Beatles' new record company enigmatically called Apple has just signed with Doris Day's offspring, Terry Melcher, to publish the latter's song in England.

Apple also means Big Business for the Beatles, including their large and well-stocked boutique-type shop in London's West End. Another well-founded rumor is that the Beatles plan a vast network of clubs coast-to-coast across America. How true that is remains to be seen. Meanwhile, everyone seems to want a bite of the apple.

Number One: Association is definitely No. 1—so states the important Bill Gavin Award. They showed so big in the Pop-Rock Artist Category.

Have Monkees Missed Their Link? There are those who think the Monkees have had it. A well-known disc trade publication hints that the BBC for one talks of ending the Monkees series. Also opines their records are no longer sure number one's. Youth Beat long ago predicted the doom of what they called at the time a "manufactured group." We said teens could not forever be fooled by predigested sham-

Move on Fatties: Hard to believe but all too true—many overweight teens are undernourished! Despite all they eat, poor food choice causes malnutrition—such as potato chips, French fries, cheap greasy cheeseburgers, candy and pop are high on their fat food list. Another sad fact of the obese girl, according to Harvard nutritionist, Dr. Jean Mayer, is that her chances of being accepted at the college of her choice are only one-third that of the normal-weight girl. Blames it on prejudice against the obese.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH*Dentist Will Welcome Another Opinion

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: "I've always considered my dentist as not only our family dentist but our family friend. However he now says I need lots of dentistry and it worries me that after all these years of routine treatment I should suddenly need so much done. It's not that I don't trust him but I'd feel better if I had another opinion. Yet I don't wish to offend him."

ANSWER: It's apparent that you never completely trusted your dentist as a dentist, and probably not as a friend, either. If a serious problem is "suddenly" recognized, it's most likely because a number of small problems which he has skillfully kept under control for many years have finally blossomed into a condition that requires comprehensive treatment.

It's not his fault that you've developed periodontal disease, or tumor or cyst, or impacted wisdom teeth. In fact his preventive measures may have saved you much pain and money. So it's not fair to make this accusation against him.

At least two other important considerations must be noted. The first is that doctor-patient relationship must be based on appreciation of your dentist's skill and knowledge, and on mutual trust and understanding, not on friendship. Friendship should be left at the door of the operating or consulting room.

There was no way to beat five diamonds, and North and South got into a heated argument about the bidding. North said, "I don't need a nursemaid. When I bid five diamonds, I don't need trump support."

South said, "Why did you double with a one suit hand?" Eventually they turned the matter over to us for adjudication.

Before getting into the North-South bidding we want to call attention to East's two spade call. East and West were playing that they showed strength over a takeout double by redoubling. Hence, East's two spade bid showed a weak hand but West could still afford to raise to game.

Incidentally, four spades play would have made with careful play.

Now for the adjudication. We charge North 80 per cent and South 20 per cent wrong doing. We don't like North's takeout double at all. He couldn't stand spades and he didn't really like hearts. What he held was a good hand with solid diamonds. He might have merely overcalled with two diamonds or he might have jumped right to five diamonds but he had nothing to gain from his double.

Where does South's 20 per cent come in? If South had thought things over carefully, he would have seen that if North wanted a choice between hearts and diamonds, North would have bid four notrump over four spades instead of the five diamonds he did bid.

More than 40 men from the industry jammed the conference room of the Arkansas Legislative Council to ask the state to head off federal intervention in the industry by stepping up the state program.

Stanley Broadway of Jonesboro said only 10 of 245 processors in Arkansas could afford to meet federal building regulations for meat packers, forcing those who couldn't meet them out of business.

The processors told the council federal standards on sanitation, labeling and wholesomeness were about the same as those of the state Health Department.

A inspection program of plants and products of state companies was started under a 1967 act, but a new federal law signed last month will require the state to strengthen its program or permit the federal government to regulate the industry.

'Tis The Season To Be
Record-Happy

This is the time of year when the jolly freemasonry of financial writers offers such cautionary lines as:

"Save all your empty pecan shells if you want to establish a loss of tax purposes," or "if you bought or sold real estate during 1967 you'd be well advised to remember the flavor of the stickum on the revenue stamps if you expect Uncle Sam to allow you a deduction for same."

Well, we'll tell you what we expect. We expect to go plumb blind keeping the sort of detailed records the Internal Revenue Service requires, and when we do we'll do our best to get (in triplicate, if possible) an additional exemption for the disability.

Tax reform takes many shapes, all of them attractive. But the one we'd like most to see is one that would assume that the time of a man who earns enough to incur tax liability is obviously valuable, hence it costs him something to keep the sort of files that more and more are required if legitimate deductions are to be established, hence he ought to be entitled to a deduction for the time it takes him. Those in sufficiently exalted tax brackets hire experts to do the pencil chewing for them — and deduct their fees. Why not the same break for poor old Sucker Comeearly, specimen American taxpayer? — Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel

Read, Then Feed

In simpler days, the most publicized use for yesterday's newspaper was for wrapping fish. Such an inferior destiny for the product of our toil and sweat-smacks of blasphemy, but facts are facts.

Of course, old newspapers have been put to other uses. Equally ingloriously, they are used to wrap garbage; they come in handy for getting a fire started in the fireplace; and farmers in the Pee Dee use them to pack cured tobacco on in the packhouse. In recent years, a couple of reclaiming plants have been set up which take old newspapers and transform them into new rolls of newsprint on which more news-papers can be printed.

But only in the past few weeks has it come to light that we in the newspaper business are turning out cow feed. Scientists at Pennsylvania State University have discovered that six heifers fed a daily mixture of 2½ pounds of printed material (old newspapers, magazines, etc.) seaweed with molasses do quite well.

The scientists are looking for a grain substitute because they say with so many hungry people in the world grain is too valuable to be fed to cows. The cows seem to like the stuff. It puts fiber into their diet and it can be produced for about $35 a ton, much cheaper than grain feeds, the scientists say.

Well, that's about all that's new from the feed mill today. — Florence (S.C.) Morning News

So What's New(s)?

The Memphis post office made big news. It announced that 34 Memphis mailmen were bitten by dogs in 1967. This wasn't the newsy part of the announcement, however. Any cub reporter knows that "Dog Bites Man" is not news. And in this modern age of long hair and LSD, "Man Bites Dog" is not very newsy either.

The big news from the Memphis P. O. was this: One Memphis postman was bitten by a cat. "Postman Hooked by Cat Nip" is news. — Dallas (Tex.) Morning News.

Took Stove, Gas Causes Blast

WILMINGTON, Calif. (AP) — A thief unhooked a gas stove in an apartment house and made off with the stove early Thursday.

Hours later, accumulated gas was ignited by the pilot light of a gas heater in the vacant apartment and exploded. Broken glass was scattered for 100 feet.

No one in the 16-unit building was injured.

Drug Makers to Trial for Thalidomide

AACHEN, Germany (AP) — The makers of thalidomide will go on trial in late May, charged with negligently causing the deformation or death of thousands of babies born to women who took the tranquilizer drug during pregnancy.

Nine officers and scientists of the Chemie Gruenthal Pharmaceutical Co. have been charged with negligent manslaughter and infliction of bodily injuries after a five-year investigation.

Some 400 complainants have registered with the Aachen State Court. The prosecution estimates that about 5,000 children in about 20 countries were born with malformed limbs because their mothers took thalidomide during pregnancy. Several thousand more are believed to have been stillborn.

The drug was marketed in West Germany and other countries until a Hamburg pediatrician, Dr. Widukind Lenz, said in 1961 he had found a connection between thalidomide and malformed babies.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Graham Griffith of Madison was elected president of the Arkansas Wood Products Association Thursday, succeeding Tommy Reynolds of El Dorado.

U.S. Gives Assurance to Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The United States has assured Cambodia there is no foundation for suggestions that U.S. forces plan to make short incursions into Cambodian territory to seek out Communist forces.

Australian Ambassador Sinclair Deschamps called on Premier Son Sann Thursday to give him Washington's assurance that the U.S. position has not changed since last week's meetings between Ambassador Chester Bowles and Cambodian officials.

A communiqué published after the Bowles meetings said the United States would do everything possible not to violate Cambodian territory.

McCarthy Speaks at University

MILWAUKEE, Wis., (AP) — With scores of Negro open housing marchers looking on, Sen. Eugene McCarthy has described U.S. Negroes as people caught in a "colonial nation living among us."

Members of the Milwaukee Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People listened quietly as the Minnesota Democrat spoke Friday night to an overflow crowd at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

McCarthy's speech climaxed his first full day of formal campaigning for the Wisconsin presidential primary April 2. He is opposing President Johnson's Vietnam policies and has challenged him for the Democratic nomination.

Milwaukee Youth Council members have in the past often chanted Black Power slogans and disrupted meetings when they disagreed with what was being said or going on.

"These are people with us," said McCarthy of the nation's Negro population. "Geographically and naturally, they are part of the United States and we who carry the burden of guilt for our ancestors have every obligation to respond to the needs and demands of these people."

"If we are to set priorities, and Vietnam is one, then it seems to me there is no question what is the priority at home."

McCarthy said, "The President has said we could wage two wars and win them both. The fact is we're not waging two wars; we're waging one and we're not winning any."

The youth council has been demonstrating for 145 consecutive days in demand of an all-inclusive open housing ordinance for Milwaukee.

Murton, the first penologist to head the state's prison system, was promoted to superintendent after spending most of 1967 in charge at Tucker in the aftermath of a State Police report of extortion and mistreatment of inmates there.

He found the "same type power structure, exploitation and intimidation" at Cummins as he did at Tucker, Murton said.

"At Tucker they saw me as Santa Claus," he said, but the inmates at Cummins are cautious and suspicious.

"I have found that uniformly in Arkansas' prison, the inmates have been lied to and don't trust," he said.

Murton, declaring that he trusted his Tucker convicts more than he did the Cummins administration personnel he inherited, brought nine Tucker trusty guards here with him and placed them in key positions in the inmate population.

Must Assure Drinks Bill Will Be Passed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A mixed drink bill would help state revenues and law enforcement but will not be included in a special session next month unless it is assured passage, C. Thomas Else, legal aide to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, said Thursday.

"It's an opportunity to set up a situation that you can control and where right and wrong is easily determined, to get revenues for the state and to benefit the tourist trade in the process," Else told a Little Rock civic club.

Such a bill has been prepared, but Else said Rockefeller was trying to keep the number of controversial bills to a minimum. He said there would be no more than 15 controversial bills in the bill.

Else also said the Republican party would feel successful if as many as 12 GOP candidates were elected to the House and as many as three or four to the Senate. He said, however, he didn't believe more than 30 Republicans would run for the House and Senate seats this year.

As for the special session, Else said it "is the people's session and not the governor's session."

Bird Watching Bug Bit Nearly All the Members of This Family

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

"Shug" has won many awards for his speaking ability and has been rated by the Toastmasters as one of their outstanding speakers. His personal charm, wit and humor make him an easy person to listen to.

At the present time, Hope is being considered as a possible site for a future semi-annual Arkansas Audubon Society meeting. As Vice-President of the Arkansas Audubon Society, "Shug" is responsible for site selection, as well as serving as program chairman for the Society.

The Hempstead County Audubon Society was organized in April of 1965 with 18 members. The first president, Dr. Herbert Rogers, headed the group two years.

Today, with a membership of near 40, the local organization is headed by the following slate of officers: president, Harry Shiver; vice-president, Mrs. James Erwin; treasurer, James Erwin. The Erwins have moved to Texarkana since their election, but they continue to hold the offices.

All bird lovers and bird watchers are urged to come hear H. H. Shiver at the Audubon Society meeting next Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

"Shug" was born in Philadelphia and was graduated from high school there. He attended college at Henderson. Today, he is a chemist for Lion Oil Company in El Dorado. He has served as Secretary-Treasurer of United Commercial Travelers and is an active member of the First Baptist Church of El Dorado.

We mentioned that bird watching had become a family affair for the Shivers, which is certainly true. Mrs. Shiver, the former Luvelo Rich of Fordyce, is rated as the finest amateur ornithologist in South Arkansas. The Shivers have two children, H. H. (Hank) Shiver, Jr., an ornithologist and a graduate student in zoology at the University of Arkansas (quite a big step from his Boy Scout badge), and Sharon, a student at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia.

"If we are to set priorities, and Vietnam is one, then it seems to me there is no question what is the priority at home."

He said the transition had gone smoothly except for an inmate council attempt tooment disorder. The two ring-leaders are now in isolation cells at Tucker Prison Farm, Murton said, one of whom he identified as James Dean Walker, convicted in the slaying of a North Little Rock policeman.

Expecting Communist Offensive

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A Viet Cong battalion fired 600 rockets and mortar rounds into South Vietnamese marine positions in the Mekong Delta today, and the marines reported killing 37 guerrillas in repulsing the four-hour assault.

Expecting a major Communist offensive to erupt before the truce for the Vietnamese New Year, allied forces pressed counter offensives in the delta and the area below the demilitarized zone, nearly 500 miles away.

The South Vietnamese troops had set up night defensive positions in a delta hamlet 43 miles southwest of Saigon in Dinh Tuong Province. The Communist assault killed 20 marines and wounded 62, 19 of them seriously, government headquarters said.

It said a small government observation patrol outside the defense perimeter was wiped out.

U.S. Air Force flare planes and Army helicopter gunships were on the scene within 15 minutes to light up the Viet Cong positions and take them with rockets and machine guns, the Vietnamese reported.

At the same time, the Viet Cong shelled two government district headquarters in the province and the staging area of an infantry battalion and armored unit. Three civilians were wounded and military casualties were light, the government said.

Two miles away from the main positions, 40 hours earlier, a U.S. Army-Navy task force had started Operation Corcoran Ten, aimed at loosening the Viet Cong grip on the province. The Americans reported only limited contact so far. One infantryman of the U.S. 8th Division has been killed and two wounded.

The biggest report of American casualties came from a mountain side 30 miles below the demilitarized zone where a U.S. Marine CH-53 helicopter crashed Jan. 8 with 41 persons aboard. A Marine rescue team finally reached the scene Friday and confirmed that all 41 were dead.

The crash was believed the worst helicopter disaster ever.

The rescuers, who climbed down ropes from a helicopter to reach the wreckage, reported the CH-53 apparently had crashed at full speed into the mountain side, killing all aboard instantly.

Light Factor

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says new experiments support the theory that the availability of light is the chief factor in acre yields of corn.

The department said Thursday a University of Illinois professor and a department soil scientist installed aluminum reflectors to throw sunlight on the lower parts of corn plants. They got a phenomenal yield of 277 bushels an acre.

The department said Thursday a bank robber grappled hand-to-hand with two city detectives, then kidnapped one officer at gunpoint in a car and later escaped in a commandeered cab operated by a woman Thursday.

The abducted detective escaped unarmed when
